Santander Securities Services appoints Thomas Murray Data Services to provide its technology platform for the dissemination of its market news

LONDON - Thomas Murray Data Services (TMDS) is delighted to announce the extension of its partnership with Santander Securities Services to include the provision of TMDS's technology platform through a White Labelling solution.

Through the TMDS technology platform, Santander Securities Services is able to swiftly and reliably distribute market news and information internally and to its clients. The bank has worked closely with TMDS for a number of years and the use of TMDS's technology platform is an extension to the existing relationship between the firms.

Santander Securities Services is utilising the service to provide itself and its clients with relevant market information. "We are pleased to be extending our relationship with Thomas Murray Data Services to provide us with its technology platform for our use in providing market information to our own staff and our global client base," says Marcos Santos, Head of Global Product and Network Management, Santander Securities Services. "We always seek to provide our clients and ourselves with the best source of information and technology, and by White Labelling Thomas Murray Data Services' technology platform, we can continue to do this".

"We are delighted that Santander Securities Services has elected to use Thomas Murray Data Services to provide its technology platform," says Simon Thomas, CEO of TMDS. "We have been providing market leading technology and information services for over 20 years and to further our relationship with a global bank such as Santander Securities Services further underlines the quality of our service".
